How to fill out MV-83SAL — Salvage Examination/Title Application

New York · written against MV-83SAL (10/25), issued under the NYS DMV salvage vehicle programme

[sellmycarhub.com
/forms/new-york/mv-83sal-salvage-examination-title-application/](https://sellmycarhub.com/forms/new-york/mv-83sal-salvage-examination-title-application/)

The application that gets a rebuilt car back on the road. New York will not register a vehicle whose owner has answered the damage disclosure on the certificate in the affirmative until the department has examined it for stolen parts - and this is the form that books that examination and applies for the branded certificate that follows it.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank MV-83SAL from the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles at <https://dmv.ny.gov/forms/mv83sal.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	YOU	Owner information	Name, driver licence number, date of birth, a contact telephone number and the address the documents will be posted to, with the county of residence. Watch out: The telephone number is marked required for a reason: the examination is scheduled by the Division of Field Investigation, and an application they cannot query is an application that waits.
2	YOU	Vehicle identification number	One character per printed box, then year, make, colour, weight, fuel and cylinders. Watch out: This examination is fundamentally about whether the parts on the car are the car's own. The identification number is the anchor for every receipt you will be asked to produce.
3	YOU	Odometer disclosure	The reading, and whether it is actual, not actual, or exceeds mechanical limits. Watch out: A rebuilt car has often had an instrument cluster replaced. If yours has, the honest answer is not the first box, and the receipts will say so anyway.
4	YOU	Appointment site and permit	One of fourteen examination locations, and whether you need a permit to drive the vehicle there. Watch out: Asking for a permit means enclosing current proof of New York insurance and an inspection report showing a pass. If the car cannot pass an inspection yet, it goes on a trailer instead.
5	YOU	Type of salvage	On page two: recovered stolen with or without damage, collision loss, flood damage, unknown or other. Watch out: Flood is its own category here rather than a kind of collision loss, and it is the one buyers ask about most. Answer it accurately - the examination is looking at the car, not at the box you ticked.
6	YOU	The rejection checklist	Signed application, correct fee, original proof of ownership, original bill of sale, proof of sales tax paid, original lien release and proof of identity. Watch out: Work down it physically with the envelope open. The department prints this list because posting the package back is the default outcome for anything incomplete.
7	YOU	Certification	Print your name in full and sign underneath it. A co-owner has their own pair of boxes beside yours. Watch out: The warning printed directly above this block does two things: it makes a false statement a criminal offence, and it records that submitting the vehicle for examination waives any claim against the department over how the car behaves afterwards.

What gets this one rejected

- The wrong fee. The form says plainly that if you do not provide the correct forms, fees, and a completed and signed application, the DMV must return your application and your check or money order to you.
- Turning up without receipts. Original receipts and ownership documents for replaced parts have to be produced at the examination, carrying the stock number and the vehicle identification number.
- Missing the appointment. Miss it and the fee is forfeited and a new fee of $150.00 has to be paid, and the form allows only one reschedule with two business days' notice.
- Giving an email address and then ignoring the inbox. The emailed notice will be the only notification sent, and no letter follows it.
- Assuming an examination is an endorsement. The form states that the department's examination does not constitute any warranty about the vehicle.
